OFFICIAL BIO

Dr. Tonya Echols Cole is no stranger to cancer. She has been treating cancer patients for over 15 years as a board certified radiation oncologist in Atlanta Georgia. After being diagnosed with breast cancer in late 2014, she realized that she was in a unique situation. She now has insight on what being both a cancer patient and a cancer doctor is like. As a result of this experience she could provide invaluable information to patients undergoing treatment, while sharing her personal journey at the same time.

She started a blog called The Beauty of Cancer. www.thebeautyofcancer.com. Her mission is to show you the "Real" Beauty of Cancer. She wants to change the perception of what a cancer diagnosis really means. Just as hard sand creates a beautiful pearl, the journey through cancer treatment creates pearls of wisdom that she calls "Beauty Secrets" By reading her blog posts, you will uncover, not only pearls of wisdom, but also beauty tips on dealing with side effects from treatment as well as valuable tips that help patients understand their diagnosis and treatment.

She also founded The Beauty of Cancer Foundation, A certified 501c3 charity. The Foundation is dedicated to supporting female cancer survivors through treatment and beyond. The foundation is dedicated to helping survivors deal with treatment related side effects and help them return to a sense of joy and well being by creating fun unique events and life experiences they won't forget.

If that wasn't enough, this mother of three year old twin daughters wanted to make sure her kids understood her cancer and the treatments she received. So, she wrote a book for them. She just finished up the first of a series of children's books explaining cancer to toddlers.

Her new motto has become “Cancer was just a job until it became my diagnosis.” This is also the title of her upcoming book about her personal cancer journey to be released in early 2016.

Dr. Cole grew up in Cincinnati Ohio. She got her undergraduate degree from The Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore Maryland. She received her medical degree from the University of Cincinnati and completed a five-year residency training program in Radiation Oncology at University of Cincinnati College of Medicine. She moved to Atlanta Georgia in 1999 and has been treating cancer patients there for nearly 2 decades.

In 2004, She started her own practice. Since then, she has been committed to providing compassionate, conscientious cancer care to men and women in the metropolitan Atlanta area.

As you can see, breast cancer didn't happen TO Dr. Cole, It happened FOR Dr. Cole to realize a new sense of purpose. She used the time off from work to reach far beyond the four walls of her medical office to touch and educate a whole new group of people. They are benefiting from the information shared in her blog, foundation and her upcoming books. None, of this would have happened if she had not gotten breast cancer. This is the Beauty of cancer!
